

Dear colleagues,

The XXI EURALEX International Congress will be held between 8-12 October 2024 in Cavtat, Croatia.

The Congress will be organized by the Institute for the Croatian Language and will take place at the Hotel Croatia, Cavtat.

With its motto Lexicography and Semantics the conference aims at bringing together professional lexicographers, linguists, publishers, researchers, software developers and anyone interested in dictionaries and their educational, cultural, political and social impact on everyday life. The conference will be organized as a hybrid event and while we encourage everyone to participate on-site, we plan to provide live streaming and recording of the event for registered participants. Please note that the authors are expected to present on-site though.

Reminder

The deadline for the submission of abstracts with a maximum of 800 words, excluding references, tables, and figures, is 1 February 2024.

Abstracts should be anonymous.

Languages: The language of oral presentations at the conference is English and no interpreting service is provided. However, you can submit your proposals in any European language.

The webpage has been updated with details about keynote speeches, the program, and the scientific committee. Provisional conference fees have also been included.

Call for papers

Papers, posters, presentations of new projects, and software demonstrations are invited on the topic Lexicography and Semantics (theoretical and applied perspectives) as well as on all lexicographically relevant topics including, but not limited to, the following fields:

- Monolingual, bilingual, and multilingual lexicography including commercial dictionary publishing
- The dictionary-making process, the use of dictionaries, and the needs of the user
- Lexicography and language technologies: the use of computational linguistics, natural language processing and computer science technologies and language resources in lexicography
- Terminology, terminography, and other specialized forms of lexicography
- Lexicography of lesser-used and under-researched languages
- Phraseology and collocations
- Lexicography and etymology
- Lexicological issues of lexicographical relevance
- Reports on lexicographical and lexicological projects
- Academic lexicography, historical lexicography, scholarly lexicography
- Theoretical linguistic research, especially those branches most directly related to the interests and needs of compilers of dictionaries and/or computer lexicons, including word meaning, syntax, word combinations (phraseology), morphology, phonology, etc.

The main topics are not meant to exclude any other lexicographic topic. Papers, posters, and demonstrations that are relevant to the congress, but do not fit into any of the above-mentioned categories, will be reviewed nonetheless and considered for presentation.

Types of contributions

When submitting your proposal, you can choose between the following types of contributions:

- Papers (regular 20 min. presentations)
- Software demonstrations (10 min. video demonstrations in a specific time slot)
- Posters (to be presented in a dedicated poster session)

Each proposal will be reviewed anonymously by a minimum of two members of the Scientific Committee. The Conference Proceedings will be published online and freely accessible ahead of the conference. It will also be submitted for indexing in Scopus.

Keynote speakers

The keynote speakers are Dirk Geeraerts, Kory Stamper, Lana Hudeček, Tony Veale, and Tiago Torrent. On our webpage, you can now find their short bios along with titles and abstracts for their talks. These presentations are timely and exciting, and we are certain they will serve as a significant incentive for your attendance at the conference.

Call for Workshops

The conference offers an opportunity to discuss topics in detail at pre-conference workshops. These can be half-day workshops on Tuesday 8 October (09:00 - 14:00).

Venues can be booked for free, but the workshop organiser pays any possible additional costs (coffee breaks, meals, etc.) If you wish to organise or take part in a workshop, you are required to register as a conference attendee and are asked to pay the applicable registration fee. Workshop organisers may ask for an additional workshop fee.

Proposals are welcome and must include:

- title + workshop chair
- length and format of workshop
- estimate of audience size
- short description of agenda
- information about structure and time schedule
- preferred time slot
- any technical needs.

Workshop proposals must be submitted to euralex2024@ihjj.hr by 15 January 2024. Each submitted proposal will be reviewed closely by the Conference Organizing Committee by the middle of February 2024.

We eagerly anticipate your presence in Croatia!
